

Council gives approval to trash pickup increases

By DON GREEN
Staff Writer

Nearly four months after the first request, the Upland City Council Monday night granted rate increases for refuse collection giving the firm under contract with the city 30 percent more revenue.

The new rates — $7.22 paid every other month for the owners of single-family homes — go into effect Feb. 1.

Increases range from about 19 percent for the owners of most condominiums and apartments and 24.5 percent for most homeowners to 28 percent and higher for commercial pickups.

In one of several contract revisions approved along with the higher rates, Western Refuse Hauling Inc. of Carson took over the Upland operations from its wholly owned subsidiary, C.V. Disposal Service.

The amendment was a change in name only, rather than in operations.

Western Refuse's request for more revenue sparked residents' complaints at several public hearings over poor service and many letters opposing the rate increases as well.

The final vote Monday night split the city council 3-2, with Councilmen Bill Bottin and Frank Hoover voting against the rate increases.

Bottin reiterated that no vote should be taken until the refuse firm provided a certified audit of its operations and financial condition in the city of Upland.

He said some kind of increase in rates was warranted due to inflated costs since C.V. Disposal took over refuse collection from the city in May 1976.

Under a commitment to the city, the company did not request additional revenue for the first two years of the contract.

However, Bottin added, "I know that I cannot in good conscience and with a keen awareness of my responsibilities to the citizens of Upland, vote at this time for any kind of a rate increase without certified financial data on which to base a reasoned and rational decision."

He said, "There has been somewhat of an implied threat that if we do not grant the requested increase, C.V. will either continue the poor service or stop altogether the refuse services in Upland."

He said the council's responsibility was with the "citizens that placed us in office, not to a company that apparently underbid a job and has obviously mismanaged the performance of a contract with this city."

Councilwoman Ina Petokas responded, "I resent your accusations, Councilman Bottin. You're accusing all of us of irresponsibility based on your own personal evaluation."

"You cannot project your values and your desires on us. We know our responsibility — I don't believe we need a lecture."

Mayor George Gibson noted that while Bottin requested a certified audit of Upland refuse operations, the request did not receive the support of a council majority when the rate increases were first discussed.

He said such an audit would be "time consuming at this stage of the game."

"Even if we did get a certified audit, what's it going to tell us? All it's going to tell us, as I see it, is that Western Refuse is telling us the truth."

Gibson said prospects of service "going downhill" with rate increases were not a "threat, but a fact of life."

He noted the revised contract calls for annual certified audits from Western Refuse.

Upland residents to rate city's services

Upland is asking residents what city services they believe are most and least important through a questionnaire now available as a prelude to the town hall meeting Jan. 22.

The questionnaires are available at departments with counter service at city hall, 460 N. Euclid Ave.; the Upland Public Library, 450 N. Euclid Ave.; the Upland Recreation Department, 123 E. D St., and the Upland Chamber of Commerce, 886 W. Foothill Blvd.

Upland will hold its town hall meeting 8 p.m. Jan. 22 at the Upland High School auditorium.

Both the survey and the town hall meeting will be used to help city officials in preparing Upland's budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

City officials are asking that the questionnaires be handed in at the offices of the city manager or city clerk or mailed to the city manager's office, Upland City Hall, P.O. Box 460, Upland 91786, before Jan. 18.

The questionnaire lists 16 city services and requests that residents rank them according to priority, with No. 1 the most important and No. 16 the least important.

Space is available on the back side of the survey for residents' comments, and City Manager Lee Travers said citizens may wish to write in a city service not listed, making 17 categories in all.

The 16 services represented amount to $5,190,943 of Upland's $12.9 million budget for fiscal 1978-79.

The questionnaire notes that about half of the total budget is made up of restricted funds, money that can only be used for designated purposes for which it is raised. Public transportation, sewer development and water service are examples of restricted-fund uses.

Services listed and their budgeted amounts for the current fiscal year are:

Police services, $2,023,374; fire and emergency first aid service, $1,213,825; park and parkway maintenance, $380,000; library, $292,826; street lighting (paid to Southern California Edison Co.), $243,712.

Street tree trimming and spraying, $208,321; land-use planning (zoning and future planning), $145,902; street maintenance, $126,193; traffic control (striping, signing and traffic lights), $122,039; recreation, $115,931; engineering, $87,906.

Street cleaning, $75,462; animal control, $48,187; flood control (cleaning basins, placing sandbags and related functions), $43,758; street weed removal, $39,507; and sidewalk maintenance (asphalt patching only this fiscal year), $24,000.

Travers said city officials have made no firm decision yet on whether Upland will also run the survey as a newspaper ad that could be returned to city hall.

The city manager noted the planned format for the town hall meeting is to start with short briefings by officials from four major administrative groups. Travers added that he will probably make some remarks on what the impact of Proposition 13 has been for the city.

Results of the survey will be discussed, and department heads and council members will be present to respond to residents' questions or comments.

Upland phone refunds slated because of fire

Residents of the Upland area with telephone prefixes of 981, 982 and 985 will receive a three-day refund on their basic monthly service charge to compensate for a service interruption caused by a recent fire in General Telephone's Upland switching office. The announcement was made today by Jack M. King, area public affairs administrator for the utility.

"In November, we had a switchroom fire that severely damaged a portion of wiring in the office," reports King. "This resulted in interrupted telephone service for many of our customers during the next three days, while repairs were being completed."

"It has always been our policy that when service is interrupted over a 24-hour period or longer, that our customers will not be charged for the time they have been out of service. Because of the fire approximately 23,000 of our customers will receive a credit on their bill reflecting three days out of service," King said.

King added that the credit will appear on telephone bills mailed between Jan. 15 and Feb. 13, and will contain the statement: "Out of service refund due to Upland switching office fire."

End of poultry industry causes dismantling of mill

By DON GREEN
Staff Writer

A long-time fixture in downtown Upland is disappearing piece by piece.

Dismantling of the Upland Feed and Fuel Co. mill, Third Avenue just south of Ninth Street, will continue for at least another month.

Its tall grain bins are shrinking under the heat of a cutting torch. The seven-foot, fiberglass rooster — the firm's trademark in recent years — has left its perch on a mill tower for a new home in Arizona.

James Eastman — vice president of Upland Feed Co., a division of Quality Industries, the current owner of the plant — said residential growth and the decline of the poultry industry locally marked the end of the mill, which has been out of production for more than a year.

The independently owned retail store, Upland Feed and Fuel Co., 164 N. Second Ave., will continue under the partnership of Ray Stump, a one-time mill hand, and Dwight Bert, who operated the mill for many years with Oren Decker.

Eastman said the name also survives in Quality Industries' poultry-feed plant in Redlands, the Upland Feed Co.

He added that the parent firm will maintain its offices just south of the mill site at 149 N. Third Ave.

Upland Feed and Fuel traces its history back to 1896 when Charles Ruedy, a native of Illinois, opened the Ruedy Feed Store at A Street and Third Avenue.

In those early years, the feed was barley for horses that worked the citrus ranches and provided transportation.

Ruedy was a prominent Upland businessman before Upland became Upland. He owned a large chunk of land in what is now the Upland Town Center and served as president of Citizens Land and Water Co., Commercial Bank of North Ontario and Magnolia Mutual Building and Loan Association.

Occupied with his other business interests, Ruedy sold the feed store in 1904 to five Upland area residents, including J.J. Atwood, founder of the department store on Second Avenue.

The partnership changed the firm's name to Upland Feed and Fuel Co. The fuel was coal and wood for heating homes.

Although barley remained the store's biggest seller, the company also supplied grain and alfalfa hay, according to a 60th anniversary publication released in 1956.

The company grew its own alfalfa on two local ranches and made free deliveries on wagons pulled by horses and mules.

The advent of the automobile changed the nature of the business in the early 1900s — horses were on their way out while chickens were multiplying.

Citrus Belt Milling Co. owned the firm from 1919 to 1926 and shortened the name to Upland Feed Co.

J.C. Mehl, Bert Decker and Joe Bert restored the full name when they bought the company in 1926 and started a family operation that continued until 1972.

Mehl withdrew as a partner and in 1948 the Decker and Bert passed the business along to their sons, Oren and Kenneth Decker and Eldon and Dwight Bert.

Dwight Bert, who served as active manager of the firm with Oren Decker, said, "I think it was one of the leading business firms in Upland for many years."

He added, "It was very instrumental in holding downtown Upland together when times were rough."

Bert recalled gross sales increased some 240 fold during his 28 years with the firm.

With the price of sacked grain soaring in 1948, the sons made a key decision to start manufacturing their own feed and later added bins for bulk deliveries.

Other advances included adding a staff of specialists to advise ranchers on the care of their flocks and building a modern poultry ranch in Cucamonga in 1953 and another in north Upland a few years later.

The retail store on Second Avenue

once featured drive-through pickup service.

Eastman said the parent company sold the Cucamonga ranch, which continues poultry production, and the Upland ranch, which it is leasing to raise a final group of birds before the land is converted to residential use.

He added that portions of the mills have been bought for continued use while other sections will be sold as scrap metal.

Upland Feed and Fuel Co. added stockholders in 1972. Oren Decker died in 1974, and four Arizona businessmen purchased the company under Quality Industries in 1976.

And the rooster, perhaps Upland's most famous "non-conforming" sign, now makes its home at a Phoenix warehouse, Eastman said.

New editor of Bonita papers named

Douglas S. Arnold has been appointed managing editor of the Bonita weekly newspapers published by The Daily Report.

The appointment, effective Friday, was announced today by George L. Collier, editor of The Daily Report and the weekly newspaper group.

Arnold succeeds Lynne Locke, who is entering graduate school at The Claremont Colleges.

The Bonita publications include the Rancho Cucamonga Times, Upland News, Montclair Tribune, San Dimas Press, LaVerne Leader and The Bulletin, serving Diamond Bar, Rowland Heights and Walnut.

Arnold also will continue in his capacity as news editor of The Daily Report, a position he has held since October 1977.

An Ontario resident since 1951, Arnold graduated from Chaffey High School, Chaffey College and Cal Poly, Pomona. He first joined The Daily Report news staff in 1969 as a parttime editorial assistant. After college graduation in 1972, he became a news copy editor and was promoted to wire news editor in November 1974.

As managing editor of the Bonita publications, Arnold will supervise news gathering and page layouts of the six newspapers which have a combined circulation of more than 40,000.

First anniversary Rancho Cucamonga Elks to celebrate

By MARGE GROSS
Staff Writer

A gala celebration is planned for Sunday by the Rancho Cucamonga Elks Lodge 2570 as the first anniversary of the lodge's establishment.

A dinner dance and barbecue will be held on the new dance floor in the lodge which formerly was the Regina Winery, 12481 Baseline Road, Etiwanda.

The deep pit beef barbecue will be put on by the Santa Maria Elks Lodge, which chairman Frank Bassi says is "famous throughout the Western states for the quality of their food."

Barbecue and fixings will run from 3 to 6 p.m. with dancing starting at 5 and lasting until 9 p.m. Music will be provided by the

'General Happening' to perform

Entertainment for the Rancho Cucamonga Elks Lodge's first anniversary dinner dance on Sunday will be the "General Happening," a group of General Telephone's employees.

The event will feature a barbecue from 3 to 6 p.m. and dancing from 5 to 9 p.m. at the lodge, 12481 Baseline Road, Etiwanda, the former Regina Winery.

The "General Happening" has been in existence since 1973 and has performed at hundreds of community functions throughout California.

Chaffey College Jazz Ensemble, a competition-winning group directed by Jack Mason.

The Rancho Cucamonga Elks Lodge 2570 started a year ago and now has well over 600 members. The building was gutted as it had not been used since 1971. The roof leaked, the floor was bare concrete, plaster was falling, there were no fixtures, running water, air conditioning or kitchen equipment.

Members pitched in and the majority of the refurbishing was on a volunteer basis. Special fundraising events were held on weekends and eventually the lodge was ready for occupancy.

In the meantime, the members did not neglect the charity work for which Elks Lodges are famous. One of the main charities is cerebral palsy, with Bassi heading the committee. The members also are involved in working for veterans, Little League and Palamino League ball teams.

Now the Rancho Cucamonga Lodge boasts an "intimate lounge," a men's dining room and the longest and largest wood dance floor in San Bernardino County, Bassi reported.

The lodge is open to the public for lunches and dinners everyday except Sunday.

Bassi, Elks' leading knight, said anyone wishing further information about the anniversary party, lodge membership or luncheon and dinner menus may call 989-1994 or 989-1995.

The public is invited to the anniversary barbecue and dance. Reservations may be made, but are not required.

Timm Emmons is the musical director, and Frank Bassi, the lodge's anniversary chairman, said, "The group is highly polished and receives wide acclaim from enthusiastic audiences wherever they perform." The group only schedules one engagement a week, allowing four days for them to work at regular telephone company jobs. Members are: Jose Altonaga, guitar, cable splicer, Camarillo; Jenny Summerset, singer, toll operator, Goleta; LeVerne Holbby, singer, customer representative, Marina del Rey; Randy Yarnell, singer, cable splicer, Santa Barbara; Eric Jones, guitar, customer representative, San Bernardino; Joyce Wilson, singer, secretary, Pomona; Karen Matheny, singer, customer representative, Lakewood; Lynda James, singer, general clerk, Pomona; Steve Henry, guitar, cable splicer, Huntington Beach; and John Schaffer, guitar, plant installer—maintainer, Santa Fe Springs.

Over 150 employees were auditioned over the past five years for this group of 10 entertainers.

Applications accepted for radiology program

Applications for admission in September to the radiologic technology program at Chaffey College will be accepted in February, according to Gordon Lockwood, program coordinator.

The program, which always fills rapidly, is accredited by the American Medical Association and the state of California. It leads to an associate in science degree and eligibility for the American Registry of Radiologic Technologist examination.

Only 25 students are selected each year from the applicants for this 24-month program. Students receive concurrent clinical training in hospitals affiliated with Chaffey College. Training includes operation of X-ray equipment, exposing and processing film, applying protective shields, positioning patients and patient care.

Chaffey College is located at 5885 Haven Ave., Rancho Cucamonga. For more information, call Lockwood, 987-1737, extension 496.

The French government on Oct. 11, 1976, announced several changes in its nuclear export policy in a move which was regarded as a contribution to nonproliferation efforts.

West End's 3 state legislators will give pay raises to charity

The West End's three state legislators say they will donate their pay increases to charity.

Technically, all three will accept the raises of $2,323, then make their tax-deductible contributions.

The state controller's office suggested that procedure to help legislators avoid legal complications. The additional income is considered taxable.

"It doesn't make sense not to take the raise," Assemblyman Bill McVittie, D-65th District, said in a telephone call from Sacramento.

McVittie said he would probably give his raise to his church.

Sen. Ruben S. Ayala, D-32nd District, said he would probably give his money to cancer research.

Ayala gave another reason for doing something other than simply refusing the pay increase.

"I'm not going to return it to the state general fund and let the legislators decide how to spend the money," Ayala declared.

Assemblyman Terry Goggin, D-66th District, also said he would give his raise to charity.

In 1977, both houses of the state Legislature approved a pay increase of 10 percent, from $23,232 to $25,555. The increase became effective at the start of the 1979-80 legislative session.

All three legislators voted for the increase in 1977.

After passage of Proposition 13 last year, the Assembly voted to drop the pay increase. McVittie and Goggin supported the move.

But the repeal effort failed in the Senate, although Ayala sided with those who didn't want the pay increase. So the increase took effect as scheduled.

A 1966 state constitutional amendment limits legislative pay raises to 5 percent annually. The Legislature has voted 10 percent increases every two years.

"I feel I'm entitled to the raise," Ayala said, reflecting an opinion shared by the West End's Assembly members. "But I'm not complaining. I work long hours, but I enjoy this job."

But Ayala said he didn't believe he should accept a pay increase in a year when most public employees — including those in state government — didn't get one.

"If state employees did not get one, I don't think others should, either, including legislators and judges," Ayala said.

Judges also got salary increases of 5 percent. The pay of a Municipal Court judge rose from $45,235 to $47,497. The pay of a Superior Court judge rose from $49,166 to $51,624.

Post-Proposition 13 legislation exempted legislators and judges from pay freezes. The legislation said local government employees could receive cost-of-living pay increases no greater than those granted to state employees.

Since Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. vetoed pay increases for state employees, that in effect froze pay levels elsewhere in California. That is being challenged in the courts. The state Supreme Court has heard arguments but has not issued a decision.

San Bernardino County Auditor-Controller Errol Mackzum said a number of judges have asked his office how they can return their pay increases.

Mackzum said one Municipal Court judge (Ward Mathews, assigned to Fontana) has been returning the extra money. — PETER WONG

'Country Trump Brunch' to feature quilt display

A display of quilts will be featured when a "Country Trump Brunch" is staged on Monday, Jan. 29, by the San Antonio Community Hospital Auxiliary.

This ninth annual event will be held from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. with brunch being served at 11:30, with all festivities taking place in Aita Auditorium at the hospital.

The annual fund-raising event benefits the auxiliary's continuing effort to boost the hospital's building fund. Hosting the affair are members of the auxiliary's advisory board: the Mmes. Joseph Schechter, Robert Spencer, James Sullivan and Ernest Wagner.

While bridge, canasta and other games are being played, others will come to just enjoy socializing and the brunch. Table prizes and others will be awarded.

The display of quilts — many of them heirlooms and ones with "stories to tell" — will follow the country theme. Anyone willing to lend a quilt for the display may call 985-2811, extension 1345. This also is the number to call to make reservations to attend the brunch. Reservation deadline is Wednesday, Jan. 24.

Chairmen of the event include Mrs. Allan Smith, reservations, Mrs. Isaac Funk, prizes, and Mrs. William Preece, table prizes. Assisting are Mrs. A.K. Niver, Mrs. George Neff, Mrs. Gilbert Extale, Ruth Duncan and Jean Hammond.

A variety of quilts will be displayed on Monday, Jan. 29, when a "Country Trump Brunch" is staged by the San Antonio Community Hospital Auxiliary. A quilt made by Mrs. J.H. ## Funding to aid seniors available

The West Valley Regional Council on Aging is soliciting proposals from nonprofit organizations which wish to apply for grants to support senior citizen programs. The West Valley Region includes Ontario, Chino, Montclair, Upland, Rancho Cucamonga and surrounding areas.

The money, to come from the FY 79-80 federal appropriations to be approved under Title III of the Older Americans Act, is being provided through the auspices of the San Bernardino County Office on Aging. Funds will be available after July 1.

Approximately $20,000 will be available and will be granted to nonprofit private and public corporations for the purpose of purchasing equipment or financing the support of service programs which benefit the elderly.

The procedure for applying includes submitting a letter of intent addressed to the chairman, West Valley Regional Council on Aging, in care of S.I.R., 316 W. B St., Ontario, CA 91762.

A sample outline of a letter of intent can be obtained by calling 988-7611, and leaving a message for the proposal committee to send a form or return a call.

All letters of intent must be in the hands of the proposal committee no later than Feb. 1.

OMSD rejects funds for federal programs

A federal program that would have provided special education to Mentally Gifted Minors (MGM) was rejected by the Ontario-Montclair School District board of trustees Thursday night, after several board members refused to support the continual use of federally-funded programs in the district.

Ordinarily routine federal program applications, including the MGM program, were consistently subjected to protests, tabling and split-decisions by the board of trustees of the Ontario-Montclair School District during its meeting Thursday.

Trustee Sam DiGiovanni said it was "time to put my foot down" and reject programs that are part of federal grants whether the money is available or not.

DiGiovanni voted against several student "enrichment" programs funded through federal grants, including the MGM program, saying, "It's possible that the kids are learning too much about culture and not enough about the basics" of reading, writing and mathematics.

Just before the votes, Jack Hassinger, director of special projects, reminded DiGiovanni, "If we accept Title I money (a federal program that helps fund cultural education) we accept the responsibility of enacting a unit that has multicultural value and is acceptable to the funding source," Hassinger said.

But DiGiovanni disagreed. "This is what I'm saying — these programs are like the old salami idea," he said. "The federal government slices the funds so thin that we're left holding the string."

"We keep losing more and more local control," DiGiovanni said. "Let them (the federal government) give us the money to do with as we see fit."

These comments were apparently what prompted:

— The lack of a second to a motion for approval of the Mentally Gifted Minors (MGM) program.

— The tabling of two teacher self-evaluation programs.

— The split-decision for approval of an oral and written language management unit.

— The split decision for approval of an accomplished opera singer performing at a district school.

— The lack of a second to a motion for approval of a bilingual student evaluation program.

All the programs involved the acceptance of federal money to help continue previously supported federal programs.

The denial of funds of the MGM program particularly upset Rose Kelber, board president, who noted, "The MGM children have special needs and I don't think we're meeting them adequately."

"We don't have the money to put into these programs — especially for the MGM children — and turning down this one saddens me greatly," Mrs. Kelber said.

Noting the amount of documentation involved in federal programs, "No wonder teachers complain they are snowed under with paperwork," DiGiovanni observed, "and their enthusiasm for the project is lost more often than not."

Trustee Kathy Brugger agreed, "What I'm hearing from teachers is that they're saturated with paperwork that takes away from the time spent on the kids."

"I'm wondering that if these projects are refused Sacramento will realize that we don't want them packaged with strings attached," DiGiovanni said.

Trustee Richard Pearson disagreed. "I don't think turning down these projects is going to get back to Sacramento."

"When I first got to this district I was adamantly opposed to taking federal money and I was pretty vocal about it at the time," Pearson said, "but there's so many things we can't do without federal funds."

Colony Park

The Colony Park Senior Citizens Club will meet on Tuesday, Jan. 23, for a business meeting at 11:30 a.m., noon potluck luncheon and afternoon of dancing until 3:30 p.m. at Colony Park Community Center, 1240 W. Fourth St., Ontario. The meetings, potluck and dance are held on the fourth Tuesday of each month.

Virgil P. Wamsley was installed worshipful master of Mt. Baldy Lodge 815, Free and Accepted Masons, Wednesday at the Masonic Temple in Ontario. Also installed were: W. Gene Templeton, senior warden; Richard E. Tucker, junior warden; James M. Grant, treasurer; John W. Daley, P.M., secretary; Raymond L. Greenhouse, chaplain; Robert T. Casaletti, senior deacon; Paul D. Holtsclaw, junior deacon; Norman Rosenthal, marshal; Thomas H. Morgan, senior steward; John A. Randall Jr., junior steward; and Allen W. Jackson, tiler.

Local attorney new president of Demo club

Beverly W. Quinn, local attorney and active Democrat, was elected president of the West End Democratic Club at the January meeting.

Other officers are: Louis Flores and Charles Tiffany, first and second vice presidents; George Morris, third vice president; Zelma Shyer, treasurer; Jeanne Brown, recording secretary; Pauline Fisher, historian; and Loyal Nixon, corresponding secretary.

"We will seek greater citizen participation in the club and in the democratic process," Quinn said, "and we will continue to be active in our communities by maintaining contact with local and state elected officials."

Ontario furniture firm files bankruptcy petition

Woodworks Builds Dynamite Furniture Inc., headquartered in Ontario, has filed a bankruptcy petition in U.S. District Court in San Bernardino.

A hearing on the petition is set for Feb. 23 at the U.S. Bankruptcy Court, 141 N. Arrowhead Ave., San Bernardino.

The company, with stores in Claremont, West Covina, Van Nuys and Carson, owes its creditors about $1.6 million, court records show.

Under a provision of federal law, the company has continued to operate instead of being shut down and having its assets liquidated.

Bankruptcy Judge David Naugle said the company is trying to rehabilitate itself.

In a newsletter sent to its customers, Woodworks officials said the company's financial problems were created by "too rapid expansion" but that they believe the situation is temporary and can be overcome.

Meanwhile, one of the creditors, Action In Advertising, wants someone "impartial" to run the business during the rehabilitation period instead of the Woodworks' owners. That decision has yet to be made by the courts.

Customers with furniture on order and undelivered as of Dec. 14 who had paid deposits were sent a letter by the Woodworks giving them two options as allowed by federal law.

If they still want the furniture, they could pay the full price on delivery and file a claim with the U.S. Bankruptcy Court to recover the deposit.

Or they could cancel their order and file the claim for the deposit.

Court records show that about 1,000 persons are listed as potential creditors of the company. Naugle said his office has received about 280 claims so far, ranging from small amounts to hundreds of dollars.

Christian preschool to reopen on Feb. 1

The Upland First United Methodist Church Preschool, established 10 years ago to provide a Christian preschool for the community, will re-open Feb. 1.

This fall the preschool has been closed in order to revamp the program and remodel the facilities.

"Our new curriculum emphasizes teaching the whole child," said nursery school board President Sally Gillam. "Within a Christian atmosphere, we seek to teach readiness skills in reading, math and writing, a beginning exploration of science, and music and art appreciation."

The children will also have an opportunity to develop their physical and social skills through creative play and learning. A new multi-play theater will be used to put on puppet shows and movies. A new playground will feature a "small town" with streets and signs and stores and buildings where students can learn traffic safety with their trikes and big wheels.

Other outdoor equipment include swings, a slide and gym set. The preschool has been licensed for 30 children.

In addition to the innovative playground, there are two newly renovated classrooms. One teacher and one teacher-aide will teach 15 students in each classroom.

"The student-teacher ratio was an important consideration of the board," said Gillam. "A caring, personal atmosphere is essential to the teaching-learning process."

The program is offered each week day from 9 to 11:30 a.m. The mornings include teaching sessions and creative play as well as a nutritional morning snack.

The First United Methodist Church of Upland sponsors the school.

An open house has been planned for Jan. 21 from 1 to 3 p.m. which is open to anyone in the community. The school is located at 262 North Euclid Ave., Upland.

Those interested in enrolling may call Shirley Colvin, director, 985-5525 or the church, 982-1345, for further information or an appointment.

County pays salary of Municipal judge

A story published Jan. 9 in The Daily Report erroneously stated that state government pays all but $9,500 of the $47,497 salary of a Municipal Court judge in San Bernardino County.

The county pays all of a Municipal Court judge's salary, said Bernard M. Boers, administrator of the county's Law and Justice Agency.

The state pays all but $9,500 of the $51,624 earned by a Superior Court judge in San Bernardino County.

New OIA carrier adds Baja flights

Ontario International Airport has added its first international air carrier in more than 30 years. Air Cortez, providing three times a week flights between Ontario and Baja California.

The airline, the 10th at OIA, operates a fleet of Twin Beechcraft on flights linking Ontario to San Felipe, Mulege and Loreto on the Baja Peninsula.

Joseph Ives, sales manager, said passenger bookings have grown from 50 in July, the first month of operation, to 800 a month for early spring with only limited travel publication advertising and word of mouth.

He said the airline is negotiating for larger aircraft to keep up with the demand.

Ives said the most popular destination is Loreto, located 750 air miles south of the U.S. border on the Sea of Cortez and the Gulf of Baja.

Attractions include 600 species of game fish and Grey Whale calves and a sea lion rookery nearby.

Before Air Cortez began operations, the last scheduled international flights from Ontario were those of Pacific Overseas Airlines, an all cargo carrier which carried air freight from Ontario to Japan by way of Hawaii in 1947.

For too many years you've been paying too much for your eyewear. You've been charged whatever your optometrist or optician has decided was a fair price. But did you ever wonder how that pricing structure was set up? Why are frames, contact lenses and other materials one price here... another price there? The answer, of course, is the average eyecare specialist is also a small businessman who establishes his own price schedules.

A NEW LOOK AT PROFESSIONAL OPTOMETRY

The average optometrist sees about five patients a day with an average profit percentage of 40%. At Dr. Katz's National Vision Centers that margin has been drastically reduced. How do we do it? By staffing our offices to handle 20 to 30 patients a day, we are able to reduce our profit structure... an obvious plus for you. In hard figures, you'll save from 25 to 50 dollars on eyeglasses and from 75 to 125 dollars on contact lenses.

SERVICE AND QUALITY NEVER DISCOUNTED

Your eye examination will be one of precision, care and thoroughness. Depth perception and color vision are tested first. The Doctor will then give you a complete eye health examination... a check for possible eye disease including a painless glaucoma test. To determine your eyeglass prescription, precise refractive measurements are then taken. These important procedures usually take about 30 minutes.

YOUR CHOICE

Now it's time for you to select the frame and lens style that will enhance your appearance. A qualified optician will aid you in choosing the eyewear that's perfect for you.

Your first impression is one of fantastic selection in eyewear styles. Select designer frames like Christian Dior, Diane Von Furstenberg, Oscar de La Renta, Pierre Cardin, Ralph Lauren, Anne Klein, Elizabeth Arden and others... as well as Bausch and Lomb, American Optical and Avante Garde.

Up to six times as many frames and lens styles than most optical places in whatever price range and style for any age... rimless, metal, half-eye and plastic. Speaking of lens styles, we carry both impact-resistant glass or plastic... the new American Optical Ultravue™ invisible bifocal, sunglasses, custom shapes,

DON'T LET THE HIGH COST OF EYEWEAR ROB YOU BLIND

tints, personalization or sunsensors. And, because we purchase in large quantities, we can pass substantial savings on to you.

WE DO OUR OWN WORK

At our on-premises optical laboratory, you will see lenses being ground, edged and fitted by one of our opticians. Not only does this save you money, but it insures the best in service and quality.

CONTACT LENSES

Conventional hard lenses, flex lenses, gas-permeable and soft contact lenses are expertly fitted. Included in the price of all contact lenses is complete examination, fitting, dispensing and one year follow-up procedures. Bausch and Lomb and Hydrocurve soft lenses include both cold chemical or dry heat sterilization kits. ALL HARD LENSES INCLUDE A LIFETIME INSURANCE POLICY AGAINST LOSS AND DAMAGE. That's important to you.

THE COMPLETE VISUAL SERVICE

Of course, there is filling of eyeglass prescriptions, adjustments and repairs, lens duplication, contact lens replacement and a one-year breakage guarantee on glass lenses.

THE NEW BIG 10 POLICY

If you're a senior citizen... if you need multiple prescriptions... if you have two or more family members in need of eyewear... if you wear contact lenses and want eyeglasses as well, you will qualify for the new BIG 10... an additional 10% SAVINGS on eye care materials.

Again, you will save from 25 to 50 dollars on eyeglasses and from 75 to 125 dollars on contact lenses.

Insurance and union plans, BankAmericard/Visa and Master Charge are welcomed. We'll even accept cash!

Now... any questions? Give us a call.

Prison site near CIM ruled out

By PETER WONG
Staff Writer
Although the Brown administration asked once again Tuesday for $100 million to build new state prisons, none of them will be located near the California Institution for Men in Chino.
But the budget Brown submitted to the Legislature includes money for conversion of 50 cells at CIM to maximum security. CIM has been primarily a minimum-security prison.
In 1977 and 1978, the state Department of Corrections recommended construction of two 600-bed prisons next to CIM. But the Legislature deleted prison construction money from the budget in both years.
"We have a strong preference and need for facilities in Southern California," Phil Guthrie, information officer for the department, said this morning.
Although he said sites for new prisons could be considered "an open question," Guthrie said the department has ruled out any hope of building prisons near CIM.
"We made an earlier commitment not to expand facilities there," Guthrie said. That commitment was made at legislative hearings last year.
"The concern was expressed at legislative hearings that there were too many prison facilities in this area, both ours and the California Youth Authority's — and we agreed with them," Guthrie added.

The department runs CIM, the California Institution for Women in nearby Frontera, and the California Rehabilitation Center in Corona. The California Youth Authority runs the Youth Training School in Chino.
Local opposition to additional prisons was strong. It played a key role in area legislators' pressure against the department's request.
Department officials expect record numbers of inmates partly because of stiffer sentences imposed by the Legislature and tougher laws against rape and other violent crimes.
Guthrie said the state prison system will reach its maximum capacity of 22,615 by the middle of this year. He said doubling up prisoners in cells will be required after that.

"It's the governor's strong position that this money should be set aside," state Finance Director Richard T. Silberman said. "We know that the $100 million is only a start, but we think this is the year the Legislature will make a commitment to get the program started."

The budget does call for $2.7 million to build or convert 310 cells at CIM, Folsom and San Quentin for maximum security. Some of the money will be spent to tighten security for 132 cells at Deuel Vocational Institution near Tracy.

"We have already filled maximum security cells and we need more," Guthrie said. The cells will not increase prison capacity.

At CIM, 50 cells in Palm Hall will be converted to maximum security. Those cells now hold inmates who commit crimes while in prison.

Spotlight on careers

Employment and career opportunities in the health fields will be the topic of the Chaffey College "Spotlight on Careers" Jan. 25 at noon in the campus center student lounge.

A short film produced by the Hospital Council of Southern California, highlighting the many occupations and professions related to health fields and hospital work, will be presented at the beginning of the program. The program is free of charge and open to the public.

Delegates will attend convention

The West End Democratic Club will be represented at the state Democratic Party convention in Sacramento, Jan. 19-21.

The delegation will be headed by Loyal Nixon, club president, and Lou Gentile, chairman of the San Bernardino County General Committee and chairman of the State Federation of County Committees.

Other members who will attend are Norma Blanchard, Jeanne Brown, Astrid Buttova, Rose Coliggi, Beverly Quinn, Irene Ayala, Raymond Marshall, Zelma Shyer, Marcia Hoggatt, Steven Bryant, Kathy Kinley, George Morris, Robert Williams, Norma Jager, Tony Meras and Mary Davis, chairperson and co-chairperson of the 32nd Senatorial District, Chris McVittie, Barbara Hill, Nellie Ayala and Gary Ayala.
Nixon said the convention will conduct elections for new state party officers for the next two years, and delegate will conduct workshops to reaffirm the party platform and to push for adoption of party changes to encourage wider rank and file participation. A complete report of the convention will be given at a future club meeting open to the public.

Winter Festival to feature music

Live entertainment featuring the Chaffey Singers will highlight the Winter Festival, an Ontario and Upland Recreation Department's co-sponsored special event for T.M.R. (Trainable mental retarded) youths and adults, 15 and up.

The Winter Festival is scheduled for Saturday, Jan. 20, from 7 to 9:30 p.m., at Colony Recreation Center, 1240 W. Fourth St., Ontario.
Other activities planned for the evening program include New Games, refreshments and craft projects. Admission is $1 per person; there is no charge for chaperones.

The Chaffey Singers are 23 Chaffey High School students who perform as part of a class. They are a jazz-pop ensemble and provide their own accompaniment for their choreographed routine.
The theme of the performance will include songs of winter and a "sentimental journey" through the '40s.
The Winter Festival is a part of Ontario Recreation Department's Adapted Programs special event series for the handicapped. Special events are conducted once a month and provide recreational and social opportunities to mentally retarded youths and adults.

The programs are planned and conducted by recreation department staff with volunteer assistance. Future special events include a St. Valentine's Social in February and a snow trip in March.

For more information regarding the Winter Festival, or volunteer opportunities, contact John Kramer at the Ontario Recreation Department Office, 986-1151.

Board president visiting schools

By KEN SWART
Staff Writer

So she can better understand the schools she represents, Ontario-Montclair School District board president Rose Kelber is visiting all the schools in the district.

"I find that as a board member this is one of the most interesting things I do, and the only way I can know the problems is to see them first hand," Mrs. Kelber said.

She said she understands that "teachers have an awesome responsibility—they're educating the future of the world."

One of the first schools Mrs. Kelber visited was Euclid School, which late last year was in the news because problem students had been placed in cardboard refrigerator boxes kept in a small basement storage room.

"I went out there so I could get a look at the refrigerator boxes they were using but they were gone," Mrs. Kelber said, adding that in place of the boxes, desks were separated on three sides with partitions.

Rather than criticizing the use of the partitions as a technique for separating problem children, Mrs. Kelber noted, "Since that technique was used I've been told the school has eliminated almost all of its disciplinary problems."

She believes the separation of problem children is effective because "I think it's unfair to let one child disrupt the learning of 30 others."

At Imperial Junior High School, the former principal was dismissed after teachers protested, and Mrs. Kelber noted the change since Ray Wiltsey was appointed principal. "What a calming influence he's been at the school," Mrs. Kelber said. "He's done an excellent job of bringing order to the chaos that was there before."

Mrs. Kelber also noted that "assertive discipline techniques are being used by teachers there and because of that there's discipline and consistency."

During one of several classroom visits at the same school, Mrs. Kelber said she saw a handicapped child suddenly become violent in a classroom. The child was gently brought to another room by a teacher, who then explained to her class what had happened.

"She saw something disturbing and turned it into a valuable lesson," Mrs. Kelber said.

Mrs. Kelber was disappointed most teachers at Moreno School did not even stay during the time she attended the lunch hour.

Rose Kelber

"Most of the teachers walked off campus and didn't talk to me during lunch," Mrs. Kelber said. "I came on campus as a representative of the board to listen to their gripes and they chose not to let me listen to them."

Even though she expressed irritation at being ignored, she noted that during her classroom visits she was introduced to the school's method of team-teaching math, social studies and reading.

"All the students get the best of each teacher," she said. While one teacher trained in a specific area does the major instruction, the other teachers circulate and help.

At Vina Danks Middle School, she approved of the photography lab, because "where else can students learn about chemistry, plus a hobby they can enjoy and a skill they can use?"

The highlight of De Anza Junior High School was the reading center, "where each child gets individual instruction and most of the kids get out of the school reading a grade higher" than the normal eighth grade reading level, Mrs. Kelber said.

She added that during the lunch hour there were many teachers who chose not to sit with her. She did not make any comments at the time "but I noticed."

Mrs. Kelber said that when she visited the developmental center at Lincoln School, recently publicized for its alleged inability to incorporate different kinds of handicapped children into its program, several children were staying after school to take swimming lessons, and "I could only see pluses in what was happening there."

When she went to visit Serrano Junior High School she said she was surprised and pleased that "a number of parents came out to meet me."

Even more parents came to Margarita School during her visit there, Mrs. Kelber added, creating "a marvelous exchange."

"The message I got from them was even if enrollment is declining they don't want to see their school close." After visiting the school, Mrs. Kelber said she could see why

Tax partner to speak to CPAs

Henry A. Jordan, national tax partner of Coopers & Lybrand, Los Angeles, will address the members of the Citrus Belt Chapter of the California Society of Certified Public Accountants at their monthly meeting on Thursday at the Arrowhead Country Club in San Bernardino.

The program will begin with dinner at 7:30 P.M.

Cal Poly baseball clinic

The sixth annual Cal Poly Pomona baseball clinic, in conjunction with the City of Pomona Parks and Recreation department, will be held Saturday, Feb. 3 at the Cal Poly baseball field and Kellogg gymnasium. The clinic will be held in two sessions, one at 8:30 a.m. and another at 12:30 p.m.

The annual event is limited to children ages 9 through 14 and to the first 200 who register. Each child will receive a free Cal Poly baseball helmet. A clinic for parents and coaches will also be held; registration is unlimited for the adults.

"For the kids this is a participating clinic," John Scolinos, clinic head and Cal Poly baseball coach, says. "They should bring their glove, bat and shoes, because they're going to be playing some ball and getting individual instruction. For the parents and coaches we're going to discuss all phases of baseball, how to watch it, enjoy it and help their kids play it better," Scolinos added.

The clinic is free. For registration forms or further information, telephone the athletic department, (714) 598-4611.

Storytimes for pre-schoolers

The Rancho Cucamonga Branch Library will offer a six-week series of storytimes for pre-schoolers, ages 3 to 5, Thursdays at 10:30 a.m. beginning this week and running through Feb. 22.

The series, "Fairy Tales Around the World," honors the U.N.'s International Year of the Child. The library is located at 9191 Base Line in Rancho Cucamonga. For further information call 987-3107.

After school program

The Fontana Parks and Recreation Department has started the 1979 winter after-school recreation program. Such activities as basketball for third through sixth grade boys and girls, arts and crafts, special events, contests and new games will be offered.

Recreation sites and times are:
Cypress School, 1:45-3:45 p.m.;
Palmetto School, 1:45-3:45 p.m.;
Poplar School, 2:45-4:45 p.m.;
South Tamarind School, 1:45-3:45 p.m.;
Juniper School, 2-4 p.m.
For further information call 823-3411, extension 37.

Ontario library board meeting

The Ontario City Library Board meetings will be held Thursday, Feb. 15 at 7:30 p.m. and Thursday, March 15 at 7:30 instead of Feb. 13 and March 13.

The meetings will be held in the garden room of the library.

Sierra Club meeting

At the Jan. 23 meeting of the Mt. Baldy group of the Sierra Club Steve Kaufman, city planner, will lead a group discussion on "Protecting Open Spaces — Is Your Favorite Wild Spot In Danger?" The discussion will center on the Chino Hills.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in Baxter Hall, 11th Street and Columbia Avenue, on the Claremont Colleges campus. Outings slides will be shown at 7:30.

Cancer prevention seminar

Total Health Education, Inc., will present a cancer prevention seminar Jan. 21 and 22 from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Community Service Building at H Street and Sultana Avenue in Ontario.

Causes, types and frequency of cancer will be discussed along with ways to reduce the risk of getting cancer. For further information call 986-1813.

Croquet tournament

A croquet tournament for children 5 to 11 will be held Jan. 27 at 12:30 p.m. at the Alta Loma Park on Beryl Avenue in Rancho Cucamonga.

A 25 cent registration fee is required and must be paid before 5 p.m. Jan. 25 at the community services office at the city hall, 9320 Baseline Road, Suite C.

There is a limit of 60 that can compete. For further information call Karen Matcham, 989-1851, extension 52.

Right to Life meeting

An open meeting of the Right to Life League of Southern California will be held at Southwest Savings and Loan, 835 N. Mountain Ave., Ontario, on Jan. 25.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. and staff members of the Los Angeles based pro-life organization, headed by Ancil L. Mitchell, executive director, will be speaking with volunteers and interested persons on service and education efforts and needs in the Pomona Valley.

Time to donate blood

There will be a community blood drawing on Jan. 25 for the Blood Bank of San Bernardino and Riverside counties.

It will be held from 2:30 to 6:30 p.m. at Ontario Community Hospital, 550 N. Monterey.

14th annual children's concert

The 14th annual children's concert will be presented Jan. 25 in Gardiner Spring Auditorium at Chaffey High School. The program will be presented by the West End Symphony Orchestra.

The concert, which consists of two back-to-back presentations scheduled for 9:30 and 10:45 a.m., will be given free of charge for 5,000 fourth grade students in the West End.

Brethren in Christ Church adopts computer

By DON GREEN
Staff Writer

Brethren In Christ Church traces its roots in Upland back to tent services in 1904, but the small denomination uses modern techniques at its new offices in the city to find potential members, keep records and decide where to build churches.

The church recently consolidated headquarters for its western region in offices at 377 N. Second Ave., Upland.

Brethren In Christ's western region — or Pacific Conference, as it is called — covers 15 churches in California, New Mexico and Oregon.

Bishop Don Shafer said Brethren In Christ had some 12,500 members nationwide at the end of 1977, noting that the figure is 15 percent higher than church membership in 1976.

Despite recent articles indicating a decline nationally in church attendance, Shafer said, "People respond more readily today than ever."

Shafer and the Rev. Aaron Stern, church developer for the Pacific Conference, credited the church's approach in finding new members for much of its recent growth.

The techniques they described somewhat resemble political canvassing.

Stern, who coordinates policy in the West on where to build new churches, said church officials look for areas with population growth and where many residents do not belong to a church — "unchurched" persons, as he described them.

Shafer outlined a step-by-step approach the church uses to contact potential members.

Church representatives start by calling residents and once they agree to take part in the phone survey, they are asked if they now belong to a church, he said.

Unchurched persons are then asked if they would like to receive literature about Brethren In Christ and later are invited to a Bible study session, Shafer explained.

He added that the church has used a professional consultant to develop its approach to new members. Phone calls followed by mailings work better than church representatives simply going door to door, Shafer said.

"We try to separate the prospects from the suspects," he commented.

Shafer and Stern now share offices with Ray Musser, national treasurer for Brethren In Christ, at the Upland location, a former baby boutique.

Musser uses a small computer to keep track of the church's financial records nationally and for the Jacob Engle Foundation Inc., a loan fund named after one of the church founders.

He said the $6.5 million fund is invested and loaned to new churches starting out. The church ranks third nationally in contributions per member.

An office for Christian Light Book Stores is also at the Upland headquarters.

The denomination started in Lancaster County, Pa. Shafer said it is a matter of some controversy within the church whether Brethren In Christ is an offshoot of another denomination.

However, he said the church had early influence from United Brethren and perhaps Mennonite denominations.

He called Brethren In Christ unique in its stress both on piety — "the personal heartfelt experience of God through Jesus Christ" — and obedience — "the outward expression of faithful discipleship through inner experience."

Upland Brethren In Christ Church, 845 W. Arrow Highway, currently has 545 members, making it one of the largest churches in the denomination, Shafer said.

The church, under the direction of Pastor Robert Hempy, has added 56 new members this year.

Shafer and Musser attributed the church's strength in Upland in part to the long-time presence of Upland College, the denominational school that closed in 1965, and rapid growth locally.

Shafer said he is one of four bishops nationally for Brethren In Christ. He described his position as serving as the "pastor to the pastors."

In addition to being the top administrator for the Pacific Conference, Shafer is the bishop for the church's midwestern region, stretching his area from California to Mississippi.

Shafer said his job itself reflects recent changes in the church. Until 1957, Brethren In Christ depended almost solely on self-supported pastors for its leadership, he said.

He noted the church was based in rural areas with lay pastors leading the congregations. For more than 20 years, Brethren In Christ has encouraged its churches to hire full-time pastors, Shafer said.

In 1957, the church also introduced the five paid positions for the bishops. (The church is currently one short with Shafer serving two regions.)

Although national headquarters are located in Nappanee, Ind., Shafer said the church has moved "deliberately" to establish itself in urban areas, including San Francisco, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York City.

He called the policy adjustments "radical" changes for the church in an effort to "reach out."

Musser noted the denomination's national goal set in 1976 was to double its number of churches in 10 years, and Stern said the Pacific Conference hopes to add 10 churches in that time.

Locally, the denomination has churches built in Upland, Ontario, Alta Loma, Chino, Sunnymead and Moreno, with second churches planned in Alta Loma and Chino. A new church is also planned for Walnut.

Temporary facilities are now used in Alta Loma, Chino and Walnut until the churches can be built. In Alta Loma, the second church site has been selected on 19th Street near Ramona Avenue.

Acceptance urged for 'boat people'

The Southern California Board of Rabbis has urged the United States to accept more Vietnamese "boat" refugees in "the American tradition of the Mayflower and in the Jewish tradition of redemption of the homeless."

Ray Musser, seated, national treasurer for Brethren In Christ Church, reviews church financial records from a computer printout while Bishop Don Shafer, left, and the Rev. Aaron Stern watch. Brethren In Christ recently consolidated western regional headquarters for the church in offices at 377 N. Second Ave., Upland. The small denomination's first church in California was established in Upland in 1902. (Staff photo by Don Green)

Social concerns conference slated

"How shall the religious community influence the course of government in our time?" is the theme of the annual social concerns conference sponsored by the Pomona Valley Council of Churches. The conference will take place on Monday, Jan. 29 at Upland Presbyterian Church, 869 N. Euclid Ave., beginning at 3:45 p.m.

Dr. Fred Krinsky, professor of government at Pomona College, will give the keynote address "Believing Is Doing." Krinsky, who is also a rabbi, will discuss why the religious community should attempt to influence public affairs.

The "how" of influencing governmental issues will be presented in a panel discussion moderated by Dr. James Gould, professor of international affairs at Scripps College. Appearing on the panel with him will be Anna Hackenbracht, food advocate for the California Church Council, located in Sacramento; James Kuhn, local Impact Network coordinator; and Ron Prescott, a former Sacramento lobbyist for the Los Angeles school district.

Following the dinner, the honorable Leo T. McCarthy, speaker of the California State Assembly will tell ways in which legislators are most influenced by individual constituents. Senator Ruben Ayala (D-32) has also been invited to attend the conference.

Reservations for the Conference may be made by calling Pomona Valley Council of Churches, (714) 622-3806 or by writing to 1753 N. Park Ave., Pomona, California, 91768.

The cost of the conference, including dinner and registration will be $3.50. The deadline for reservations is Thursday, Jan. 25.

Advocacy concerns: hunger

Council to start program

Sunday is recognition day for Pomona Valley Council of Churches and the occasion for announcing the appointment of Sara Ramos as the hunger projects' coordinator for the council.

The hiring of this additional staff person will move the council from being primarily a training organization to one that is involved in advocacy concerns, according to a council official.

Mrs. Ramos will coordinate emergency assistance as it relates to churches in San Bernardino and Los Angeles counties. A primary function of this job will be developing procedures for assisting hungry people to find help within the present systems. The development of food bank services will be an additional project for Mrs. Ramos.

Along with creating a network among the churches for dealing with these needs, Mrs. Ramos will be planning educational events related to hunger so that local residents can attack the problem at its grass roots levels.

Sara Ramos has worked with the San Bernardino County Department of Public Social Services for five years as an eligibility worker in the welfare department. She presently serves as a member of the community relations commission for the city of Ontario. Part of her duties on this commission involve housing needs for the city.

Mrs. Ramos was one of the founders of PAS, Project Social Action, a Spanish speaking group working with migrants and dealing with nutrition needs and other services.

An active communicant in St. George Roman Catholic Church, Sara Ramos was the only lay person selected to meet with an emissary from the pope. This honor was conferred upon her because of her commitment to and involvement with Hispanic concerns.

Mrs. Ramos and her husband Gus have played an active role in social service within the community, giving leadership in many critical areas. Mr. Ramos presently serves as the executive director for the Upland Housing Authority. He has served as a city councilman for Ontario, helping to establish a multi-service center.

"The joint working together of many churches has made possible an effective instrument for helping all churches to minister to the needy among us. We look forward to this creative endeavor."

said Audrey Lightbody, executive director of the Pomona Valley Council of Churches.

Baha'is set slide show

The Baha'is of Ontario, Upland and Rancho Cucamonga will commemorate World Religion Day with a slide show of the Baha'i House of Worship 8 p.m. Sunday at the Santa Fe Federal Savings and Loan Association, South Euclid Avenue in Ontario.

The house, located on the shores of Lake Michigan in Illinois, was designated as a cultural resource for its architectural uniqueness exactly 134 years from the date the Baha'i faith began.

Identification card possible

Tough actions favored on illegal immigrants

By PETER WONG
Staff Writer

Rep. Jim Lloyd says he will support a variety of tough measures in Congress, including the possibility of a national identification card, to deal with the flow of undocumented immigrants from Mexico.

At the same time, Lloyd called for additional economic aid to Mexico. He said President Carter's proposal for dealing with the problem "seems to be dying by the wayside."

But Lloyd emphasized the harder line in recent remarks at a breakfast he held for mayors, council members and administrators of the 12 cities in his 35th Congressional District.

The problem is intensified because of Southern California's nearness to the Mexican border.

Lloyd mentioned a series of tough measures to be considered in the 96th Congress, which convenes Monday in Washington. He added:

"If, indeed, in this tightening up (of immigration laws) we step on a few fingers — and we're going to, probably — I think, then, maybe we're going to have to accept that."

Lloyd confirmed later he had in mind the possibility of a national identification card for U.S. citizens. But he didn't mention it directly in his remarks at the breakfast.

A national identification system isn't a new idea. It has been opposed on grounds that it would restrict freedom of movement in the United States.

But Lloyd said he believes it wouldn't be that severe. He likened it to restrictions in force during World War II. He added:

"And you want to know something? We all survived. It wasn't really a bad place. We had plenty to eat. We got around and made it work. We're going to have to do some of the same things today to the solution of problems such as this."

Lloyd, a Democrat, is starting his third two-year term in Congress.

Among the measures Lloyd said Congress would be considering in the next several months are the following:

— Changes in the visa system to reduce the abuse of visas by foreign visitors and students. Many of them stay longer than their visas allow them to be in the United States.

— Tougher provisions for deportation of legal immigrants who become welfare recipients.

— Designation of U.S. sponsors of legal immigrants as the persons financially responsible for the immigrants' maintenance, including clothing, housing, medical care and transportation.

— Creation of a new unit within the Immigration and Naturalization Service to stop the manufacture of fraudulent documents obtained by illegal immigrants to legitimize their presence in the United States.

— More money and officers for the U.S. Border Patrol to enforce immigration laws.

Lloyd said the Mexican government is not doing enough to curb the flow of immigrants into the United States.

"In my opinion, that government has encouraged its citizens to move north because that means there is a flow of American dollars back into Mexico," Lloyd said.

Lloyd chose not to mention it to his audience, but he also apparently is considering urging more than just tougher enforcement of federal laws to solve the immigration problem.

In the notes from which he made his remarks, Lloyd mentioned "working with the Mexican government to establish a more effective birth control program in Mexico, and to improve employment and other economic opportunities within that country."

Lloyd made his notes available to reporters.

Lloyd said Carter's proposal to grant amnesty to certain groups of undocumented immigrants and to penalize employers who hire them will probably remain just that, "and probably it ought to."

Lloyd described the immigration problem as "a double-edged sword."

The immigrants receive welfare and medical care at the expense of county governments. They also hold some jobs that normally might go to U.S. citizens, Lloyd noted.

"But it works on the other side. We dehumanize these people. We do not give them adequate housing. We hold over them the fear of discovery at all times — and deportation. We misuse these human beings," Lloyd said.

"It is not a one-way street. If we are to address human rights, perhaps we ought to do it right here at home."

83 million taxpayers to get break

By ROBERT ESTILL
Copley News Service
WASHINGTON — Energy savers, investors and older persons who sell their homes will find new benefits in the tax forms now being sent by the Internal Revenue Service to 83 million taxpayers.

For the conservation-conscious, tax credits up to $300 are provided for energy-saving investments in their personal homes.

For the first time, a taxpayer may get a credit of 15 percent of up to $2,000 in investments in insulation, exterior storm doors and windows and other devices which conserve energy.

The credits may be claimed for energy saving investments between April 19, 1977, when President Carter announced his energy program, and Dec. 31, 1978, the end of the tax year.

It is a credit, and not a refund.

For example, if the taxpayer's tax liability was $400 and he was eligible for the full $300 credit (15 percent of $2,000 invested in energy-savers), his tax bill would be $100.

If his tax liability was only $200 and he is entitled to the full $300 credit, the taxpayer would not have to pay any tax this year and would have a $100 credit which can be carried over on his next year's taxes, according to Tony Bombardieri, an IRS spokesman.

The other major new features this year are for taxpayers with capital gains, profits from the sale of real estate or stocks and bonds.

Persons who are 55 years old or older, who have sold their personal residence since July 26, are allowed a one-time only exclusion of up to $100,000 on profits from the sale.

The other major change applies to all persons who had capital gains. It raises the exclusion from 50 percent to 60 percent on profits since Nov. 1.

Smog device tips
for auto buyers

If you're in a fog over smog control requirements when you buy a used vehicle in California, here's an explanation that might help clear the air:

According to Department of Motor Vehicles Director Doris V. Alexis it is a violation of the California vehicle code for an individual to sell, or even offer for sale, a vehicle which does not meet smog control requirements for that area.

Difficulties arise, however, once the vehicle has been sold.

Provisions in the California vehicle code require that a vehicle must be tested for smog control standards at an authorized service station or garage and be issued a "certificate of compliance" before DMV can transfer registration. The certificate essentially verifies that the vehicle meets air pollution control standards for that area.

Once money has changed hands, however, the buyer can only return to the seller and request that the seller bring the vehicle up to smog control standards. If the seller refuses, the buyer is faced with a choice of filing legal action against the seller, or providing the smog control him or herself.

If the buyer opts to pay for the smog control repairs, the price of the vehicle has effectively been increased — perhaps more than the buyer would have initially been willing to pay — and if legal recourse is taken, the buyer still suffers, since he or she is left with a vehicle with DMV will not register, and which the new owner can therefore not legally drive.

To avoid getting stuck in this situation, Mrs. Alexis advises that the prospective buyer and seller make an agreement prior to the sale on who will pay for smog control repairs if the vehicle does not meet smog control standards. With a prior agreement, if the vehicle is found to be below acceptable standards, neither party should be left feeling like they've been "taken for a ride."

Marcel Marceau to play return Claremont date

Marcel Marceau, considered "the world's greatest mime" by drama critics, will appear, assisted by Pierre Verry, in two performances only at Bridges Auditorium on the campus of The Claremont Colleges, Claremont, on Friday, Feb. 2 at 8:01 p.m. and Sunday, Feb. 4 at 2:31 p.m. The appearance is a return engagement after last year's sold out show. Marceau will select sketches from his repertoire of style pantomimes and also from Bip sketches. In 1947, Marceau created "Bip," the clown who in his striped pullover and battered, beflowered opera hat, has become his alter-ego. Bip's misadventures with everything from butterflies to lions who will not be tamed, on continental railway trains, or in dance-halls or restaurants, are limitless and particularly appealing to children.

The French Government recently gave Marceau a grant which enabled him to reopen his International School of Mime. Students from around the world have enrolled and Mr. Marceau hopes to form a company within the next few years.

Tickets for the two performances are now on sale at the Bridges Auditorium Box Office, Fourth and College Way, Claremont, and at all Mutual Ticket Agencies. The box office is open Monday through Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

VCT seeks original one-act plays

The Valley Community Theater of Pomona is looking for new, original one-act plays for its 1979 edition of "The New Voices Showcase." The deadline for submissions is Feb. 28.

Plays selected for "New Voices Showcase" will be presented as part of the theater's '78-'79 season. At present, opening is slated for mid-May.

Plays submitted to "New Voices Showcase" should be original, previously unperformed works which should not exceed an hour in length. Plays with casts and settings are preferred. Other than these restrictions, however, "New Voices Showcase" is open to all types of one-acts: comedy, drama, farce, historical or musical. "New Voices" goal is to present as wide a range of styles as possible.

"New Voices Showcase" is open to everyone with the desire to express themselves theatrically. There is no limitation on the number of plays submitted.

It is requested that each play be accompanied by a brief one- or two-paragraph synopsis. Plays should also be accompanied by self-addressed, stamped manila envelopes. A stipend will be paid to the authors of the plays selected.

Plays should be addressed to "New Voices Showcase," 1395 E. Kingsley Ave., Pomona, CA. 91767. Additional information may be obtained by calling "New Voices" coordinator Kevin Whitaker at 629-7772 or the Valley Community Theater at 622-6954.

Griffith Observatory— more than a telescope

Star light, star bright,
First star I see tonight,
I wish I may, I wish I might
Have the wish I wish tonight

This familiar ditty has been repeated by young and old for generations.

That first star being wished upon may be Arcturus, which is seen in the spring or summer.

Or it could be Sirius, a blue-white star shining in the west during the winter.

How many planets are in the sky and the miracles of the universe can be learned at Griffith Observatory and Planetarium.

The popular home of astronomy has been in Griffith Park on the side of the Hollywood Hills since 1935. Since the doors opened, through the gift of Col. Griffith J. Griffith to the city of Los Angeles, more than 30 million people have visited the planetarium.

John Mosley, program supervisor of Griffith Observatory, is responsible for planetarium shows.

Mosley started the interview at the Foucault Pendulum near the planetarium's entrance.

He then walked to seismological instruments and taped a card to the top of a glass-enclosed graph. The graph's three arms left marks on the paper in three places.

"This records movements," he said about the graph, and then jumped on the floor. The needles made several lines rapidly.

"We had an earthquake last night and you can see it there," Mosley said as he pointed to broad and heavy lines on the graph.

"It was a 3.7 quake in the Mojave Desert," he said. "We have a couple quakes a week."

This is but one of the interesting exhibits in the observatory museum area.

The Foucault Pendulum is a 240-pound hollow bronze sphere swinging on a wire from the dome 40 feet overhead.

Invented in 1851, it gave direct proof of the earth's rotation on its axis. The sphere constantly swings and takes 42 hours to complete one revolution.

In the Hall of Science are exhibits of solar telescopes, the six-foot moon globe, meteorites, giant Tesla Coil, cosmic ray cloud chamber, models of spacecraft and other exhibits related to astronomy, space travel and the universe.

The planetarium is a domed theater which Mosley said is 50 feet high and 75 feet in diameter.

The shows projected onto the overhead "sky" come from the Zeiss instrument and 12 projectors which produce more than 100 special effects.

Mosley said four to five different shows are given within a year on a variety of topics related to astronomy. Currently and until Nov. 26, "The Great Moon Hoax" is being presented. From Nov. 28 to Jan. 1, the traditional "Winter Sky, Christmas Star" show will be shown. "Einstein and Relativity" will run March 6 to June 24, followed June 26 to Sept. 23 by "Apollo Ten Years Later."

Watching a planetarium show is an unforgettable experience. When the telescope projects the stars and planets into the sky, the sensation is one of reality — until the operator, in this case, Mosley, begins racing the moon across the sky.

"The Great Moon Hoax" relates astronomical fallacies over the years which the public has been encouraged to believe. The show's title relates to an 1835 newspaper story where great, though false, discoveries about the moon were revealed by a reporter.

The shows go on 3 and 8 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, 1:30, 3, 4:30 and 8 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday. The entire observatory is closed on Mondays. No charge is made to visit the Hall of Science, but fees are charged for planetarium shows.

Atop the observatory is a 12-inch telescope, one of the largest in California. Here the public can look at the moon, Saturn, Mars and celestial objects. No fee is charged.

For those who like light-music shows, after the planetarium's last show, the Laserium is offered. This is presented for a fee by individuals not connected with the observatory. "It gives us some extra revenue," Mosley said.

Mosley said the observatory is not used for research, though there have been times when Navy pilots going to Antarctica have been briefed on the skies and position of the stars using planetarium equipment.

Mosley also recalled a yachtsman who was sailing across the Pacific who asked for a briefing on the skies around the various islands. The planetarium sky also has been used to brief astronauts and Army Air Corps navigators.

Griffith Observatory can be reached from the West End by traveling on the San Bernardino Freeway to Hollywood Freeway, taking the Vermont Avenue exit and going north to the end of the street. Visitors also can take the San Bernardino Freeway to Golden State Freeway, exit at Los Feliz and go west to Vermont Avenue, then north. Parking is free.

However much a beginner may fear to tackle night photography, there is no great mystery to it. Making night pictures is not all that difficult with a few basic tools — and determination — can create dramatic photos, such as this coastal scene, with a freighter sailing into the night.

Removing the mystery from night photography

By JERRY WINDLE
Copley News Service

For the beginner, night photography seems like a big mysterious adventure that he may never feel confident enough to tackle.

Actually, making night pictures isn't all that difficult, and with only a few basic tools any photographer can make dramatic night photos.

There are several things necessary when tackling night photographs.

The first is a solid camera support. This can be either a tripod, usually the most convenient tool, or it could be simply a clamp with a tripod head attached that you can clamp to almost anything to form good support.

A solid support is necessary because you will be working with exposures of one-fourth of a second up to several seconds in length.

A locking cable release is the second necessity, but you can do without it if you have to. The cable release is important because it will allow you to open and close the shutter of the camera without the chance of bumping or moving it. While using long exposures, the less you have to touch the camera, the better.

What about film and exposures?

Almost any film will do. The faster films, of course, will give shorter exposure times. If using color slide film, I would recommend a daylight emulsion even though you will be shooting tungsten lights in your exposure. The daylight film exposed to tungsten light will create a color warmer or redder than reality. Often this can be a plus for your pictures.

Check the information sheet packed with your film. Often there are suggested exposures for night pictures listing several lighting conditions such as neon marquees or street lights, and they are pretty accurate. The list is usually included with the faster films, but use it as a starting point and go from there.

How do you make your exposures?

Once you have determined to the best of your ability what the exposure is going to be, there is a rather simple technique you can use.

Hold a small black card, about three by five inches, in front of the lens. Open the shutter with the cable release. Your exposure will not start until you move the card away. To stop the exposure, simply replace the card over the lens and then close the shutter.

Why use the card instead of the shutter?

This is simply another technique to minimize any possible camera movement. By having the lens covered when you open the shutter, there will be no exposure. If the camera moves slightly when the shutter is opened, it will not register on the film. The same after the exposure is over. Covering the lens will eliminate any movement when the shutter is closed.

Dusk is usually a better time to make night pictures since there will be slightly more light on your subject.

The lighthouse picture is a good example of determination and wanting to get just the right picture. San Diego photographer Don Bartlett went out to make the picture and made his exposures. Later, in the darkroom, the prints just didn't work out right. So the following night he was back out at the lighthouse to try again.

This time, everything worked right, and Lady Luck even gave him the lonely freighter sailing out

More senior citizens eligible

Free fishing license rules change

Thousands more senior citizens in California became eligible for free fishing licenses Jan. 1 under terms of new legislation increasing income limitations, the state Department of Fish and Game announced.

Eligible for a free license is any person 62 years old or older who has resided in the state for five years and whose total monthly income does not exceed $308 if single or $574 combined if married.

Former income limitations were $250 and $500, respectively.

In addition, any person receiving state old age assistance (commonly known as SSI or a "gold check") may obtain a free fishing license.

These licenses are valid for taking any game fish from any open waters of the state.

DFG license chief Jim Christopher said that applications for senior citizens' licenses are available from all license agents and all Fish and Game offices. Applications must be submitted to department headquarters, which will issue the licenses.

Increasing the income limitations, Christopher said, will mean that an estimated 37,000 more senior citizens will receive free licenses. With the old limitations in effect, the DFG issued more than 41,000 of these free licenses annually.

Christopher explained that about 160,000 of California's nearly 1.3 million senior citizens who qualify for the free license are anglers, and, of these, about half will take advantage of free licenses.

Free fishing licenses also are available to some disabled veterans whose disability was incurred during wartime, including the Korean and Vietnam conflicts; to blind persons; indigent American Indians; and some disabled persons who live in state institutions or certified family care homes or who are receiving services from a Center for the Developmentally Disabled. Disabled veterans also may obtain free hunting licenses and tags. Applications for these free licenses, together with information regarding eligibility, also are available from DFG offices.

Christopher noted that the new legislation made no change in eligibility requirements for these licenses and the DFG expects to continue to issue about 8,600 free fishing licenses to persons other than senior citizens and something like 1,000 hunting licenses to disabled veterans each year.

Improve fishing

Fishermen are always searching for ways to better their equipment and make fishing more fun. Here are proven ideas from Mercury outboards' outdoor recreation department that will be helpful to any angler.

A quick way to secure the free end of a monofilament fishing line on a bait casting rod is to loosen one of the knurled nuts on the level-wind reel, throw a fast turn of line around the screw and tighten the nut. It'll hold tight and be ready for tying on a new lure when needed. Saves line, too, since you don't have to tie in a large loop which is later cut and discarded.

Many boats have live wells with a self-draining feature to circulate fresh water. That's fine until you move the boat, and then all the water will be siphoned out of the well. End this problem by whittling a cork plug to fill the drain hole.

You and Your Pet

Cats susceptible to infection

By Robert L. Stear
Cats are as susceptible as their owners to viruses that cause respiratory distress. Unfortunately, cats rarely escape with the feline equivalent of the "common cold." They more often develop the fever, sneezing, and runny nose that signal a major problem for the pet owner.

Cats are infected when tiny virus particles floating through the air enter the mouth or nose and grow on the cells lining and nasal passages. These viruses become firmly entrenched in the cat's respiratory system, causing symptoms lasting a few days or weeks to as long as two years.

There are also cases where an apparently healthy pet carried a hidden virus infection but resisted it until the pet was subjected to crowded living conditions, poor diet or a similar stressful situation.

Feline respiratory disease is especially severe in catteries or humane shelters where the infection can move swiftly from animal to animal. Some professional breeders have seen as many as 45 percent of their animals affected at one time.

Cats kept in private households are not affected quite so often since their opportunities for reinfection are fewer.

In cats, respiratory disease is a "complex" — a condition that can be caused by at least three different viruses and one parasitic organism. Sometimes these agents work in combination and so weaken the cat that it becomes susceptible to additional bacterial diseases.

The organism that causes most feline respiratory disease is a herpes virus. Cats do not seem to develop any long term immunity to this virus, and can carry the infection long after their symptoms have disappeared.

Although mortality is low in mature cats, most of which recover completely, the virus is devastating to young kittens. Many die, and survivors can be stunted for life.

Vaccines that will protect your cat or kitten from respiratory disease have been perfected in the last five years, and are now widely available from veterinarians across the country. Some products are given as nose drops, others are injected.

One vaccination a year is sufficient for most cats, although an occasional animal may require two treatments a year for complete protection. It is especially important to protect kittens, as the temporary protection they receive from nursing a vaccinated mother does disappear.

Breeders often begin inoculating kittens at 5 weeks of age and repeat the treatment until they are certain the kittens have established their own immunity, usually at about 12 weeks.

If you fail to vaccinate your cat, be aware that cats with colds have special problems. Often they become dehydrated and develop painful mouth ulcers.

When this happens, the cat refuses to eat, becomes depressed and highly susceptible to pneumonia. Your pet may also lose a lot of weight.

Treatment consists of antibiotics, medicated ointments and fluids from your veterinarian, plus tempting bits of food and comfort from you.

During and after treatment, the convalescing pet should be protected from all types of physical stress.

(Stear is manager of veterinary services at Norden Laboratories.)

Kids take eating cues from parents' habits

When Johnny spurns his spinach he may be taking a cue from Dad, says the California Dietetic Association (CDA).

A study of parental influence on children's food preferences, reported in a recent edition of the Journal of Nutrition Education, reveals that father's food likes and dislikes are as important to his child as mother's.

"While nutritionists have generally assumed that the mother's influence on the child's food choices was primary, it now appears that father's food likes are of equal importance," said Mary Jo Feeney, RD and president of CDA.

The study did bear out the fact that the mother is responsible for planning, purchasing and preparing family meals in the majority of households. However, she defers to the father's food choices most of the time, according to the report.

"There's certainly nothing wrong with this if the father balances his meals with choices from all four food groups — milk, meat, vegetables and fruits, and breads and cereals," Feeney said.

"But problems can arise if father is too selective or restrictive in his food choices," she added.

In the past, nutrition education has been geared toward children and their mothers. It would appear from the results of this initial study that fathers should also be included in the education process, according to CDA.

The CDA offers some suggestions for women whose husbands do not always make wise food choices. For example, simply alerting a father to his importance in his children's eating habits can often set the stage for more responsible food selections.

Offering a wider variety of foods is another way to educate a father's palate. Serve a new main dish occasionally, and compliment it with special rolls or a favorite vegetable or fruit salad.

Don't be intimidated by a blanket rejection of a whole category of food. A man who "can't stand" fish, for example, probably loves tuna sandwiches and with a little coaxing can learn to enjoy salmon salad.

Indigestion has many meanings

The term "indigestion" is a catch-all which covers a number of symptoms, all related to discomfort or distress in the digestive system. It could mean heartburn, gas, nausea, loss of appetite, cramps, constipation, diarrhea, or a combination of these symptoms.

Symptoms of indigestion might result from a relatively minor episode, caused sometimes by being indiscreet about what you eat or drink — and in what amounts — and sometimes by emotional stress. For example, the burning sensation under the breastbone (commonly called heartburn although it has nothing to do with the heart) is often caused by drinking, eating or smoking too much.

The feeling of being bloated or gaseous is often caused by swallowing air along with your food; sometimes it can be traced to an overabundance of rich foods in your diet. Diarrhea and constipation, lack of appetite, and vomiting are all common responses of the digestive tract to worry, fear, depression or other emotional tensions.

On the other hand, any one of these digestive symptoms might be the warning signs of more serious health problems. It is difficult to tell which ones to dismiss as minor discomforts and which ones should be reported to your doctor.

A symptom of digestive distress which shows up in an older person who has always had a sturdy stomach is especially significant and should be investigated. A gnawing pain in the upper abdomen an hour or two after a meal should be reported to your doctor, as should stomach pain, diarrhea or other symptoms which awaken you during the night.

When symptoms of indigestion occur along with other symptoms, such as darkened stools or urine, excessive weakness, or yellowish discoloration of the skin and eyeballs, you should consult your doctor. In those circumstances your indigestion is part of a deeper health problem which should be treated as promptly as possible.

If you feel that your indigestion should be called to the attention of your doctor, you are advised to keep track of the circumstances under which the symptoms develop:

— Do they appear only when you are under tension?
— Do they seem to be related to specific types of foods?

— Do they occur regularly and at specific times of the day?

— Do they occur after physical exertion?

This information will provide your doctor with helpful clues in tracking down the cause of your digestive problems.

For many people, the symptoms of indigestion may be relieved simply by improved eating habits and reduction of emotional tension.

Driver education requirements in schools supported by adults

Nine out of ten adults support driver education course requirements for 16- and 17-year-olds before a driver's license is issued, according to a recent Automobile Club of Southern California survey.

Although survey participants favor public high schools providing both classroom and behind-the-wheel training instruction for students before licensing, the Auto Club points out that whether to continue offering this instruction in the public schools is a matter of discussion and debate among some public officials.

Some 515 heads of households were interviewed using a standard telephone random sampling technique by MSI International, a Los Angeles opinion research firm, for the Auto Club. The sample, a geographically-representative group from the 13 Southern California counties, consisted of nearly equal numbers of Auto Club members and non-members.

"Seventy-five percent of the citizens polled think driver instruction courses are 'very worthwhile,' and an additional 18 percent feel they are 'somewhat worthwhile' in helping young people become safer and better drivers," said Donald D. Treichler, manager of the Auto Club's public safety department.

"While some public officials have argued that driver education is not an appropriate curriculum for the public school system," he continued, "the Club's survey indicates that by a margin of about 3 to 1, the Southern California community feels that public schools should be responsible for providing both the classroom and practice driving phases for unlicensed drivers."

In an effort to remove driver education from the public schools, a proposal has been considered by the Legislature to allow students to obtain driver training from commercial driving schools through the issuance of vouchers by the local school district administration.

"Our survey," Treichler commented, "indicated that Southern Californians generally feel that high school driver education is the best method for teaching young people to drive. Less than one out of eight respondents preferred commercial driving schools as an alternative to public school courses.

"Even fewer felt that parents should teach their children to drive automobiles," he added.

Survey respondents generally approve of present driver education funding practices. As provided by law, classroom instruction is financed through general education funds, while behind-the-wheel training is largely paid from non-school funds. Generally, local costs to school districts exceed state reimbursements from this fund.

Some 70 percent of the households polled included someone who had completed a driver instruction course.

A "Spanish Salad Bowl" reminds one of the iced Gazpacho, Spain's salad-soup. This salad makes a great complement to a grilled steak or hamburger with its lettuce, onion, green pepper, cucumber, tomatoes and canned pineapple slices.

Warm up to easy bean soup

Attention all bean soup lovers... have we got good news for you!

When was the last time you sat down to a steaming bowl of hearty, homemade navy bean soup?

It's long been a traditional favorite... and usually takes hours of preparation when made from scratch. That's an investment in time today's busy cooks aren't always willing to make.

Happily, though, you can now have your bean soup and eat it too, all in a matter of minutes.

Our Michigan Pork and Bean Soup requires only a few simple steps from beginning to end.

Convenient canned navy beans in tomato sauce provide the basis for the simplified version of the traditional recipe. Chunks of potatoes, ham, onion, celery and bay leaf team with nutritious canned navy beans for your savory meal-in-a-bowl.

Michigan Pork and Bean Soup (recipe follows)
Whole Grain Bread
Cottage Cheese and Vegetable Salad
Fresh Chunky Applesauce

Michigan Pork And Bean Soup
3 cups chicken broth (canned or frozen)

1 pound potatoes (3 medium), cut in 1/2-inch cubes
1 small onion, finely chopped

1/2 cup thinly sliced celery
1 clove garlic, mashed
1 small bay leaf
2 cans (1 pound each) beans in tomato sauce

2 cups diced cooked ham
Salt and pepper
In saucepan, bring broth to boil. Add potatoes (peeled or unpeeled), onion, celery, garlic and bay leaf.

Cover and simmer until potatoes are tender (about 10 minutes). Add beans and diced ham. Stir and simmer 10 minutes more. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Serve in large bowl.

Makes about 2 quarts — 6 servings.
To prepare in microwave oven: In 2 quart glass casserole, mix all ingredients except salt and pepper. Cover with plastic wrap. Cook in microwave oven 10 minutes. Season with salt and pepper to taste.

CROSSWORDS

Be creative

Feature creative salad at next winter barbecue

As many an outdoor chef will agree, the greatest compliment to a well grilled steak is a creative salad.

Such is the "Spanish Salad Bowl." Admittedly, the idea is borrowed from iced Gazpacho, Spain's salad-soup, when it comes to the combining of many of the ingredients. Like the Spanish version, it should be served well chilled to emphasize its refreshing flavor and crunchiness.

Thin slices of green onion, chopped green pepper and chilled lettuce line the salad bowl. A triangle of color arranged over the top includes golden canned pineapple slices, green edged thinly sliced cucumbers, and ripe red tomatoes.

Spanish Salad Bowl

- 1 (1 lb. 4 oz.) can pineapple slices
- Spicy Dressing
- 1 head iceberg lettuce
- 1/4 cup sliced green onion
- 1/4 cup chopped green pepper
- 1 medium-large tomato, sliced
- 1/2 cup thinly sliced cucumber
- Drain 1/4 cup syrup from pineapple for Spicy Dressing.

Chill salad ingredients. Prepare dressing and chill. When ready to serve, tear or cut lettuce into bite-size pieces to measure 1 quart, combine with onion and green pepper, and turn into shallow 1 1/2 quart serving bowl. Top with pineapple, tomato slices and cucumber. Serve with Spicy Dressing. Makes 5 servings.

Spicy Dressing

Measure 1/2 cup oil, 1/4 cup each syrup from pineapple and garlic flavor red wine vinegar, 2 tablespoons catsup, 1 teaspoon each salt and dry mustard, 1/2 teaspoon mint, crumbled, 1 small clove garlic, minced, and 1/4 teaspoon oregano, crumbled, into a pint jar. Cover jar tightly and shake well to blend. Shake again just before using. Makes about 1 cup.

Be creative!*Try inexpensive dinner of meat loaves for two

Be creative! Turn one inexpensive, yet fabulous dinner for a couple, into two. It's not magic; it's merely a wise choice of foods in the supermarket and good use of a freezer.

Double-duty Meat Loaves is a recipe that you can use twice. Use it tonight, then on another day as an elegant TV dinner.

Four cheese-stuffed loaves spiced with ketchup, brown sugar and mustard, feature ground beef, still one of the best buys in the meat counter regardless of current increases. While two are served by candlelight with mashed potatoes, broccoli and your favorite wine, the other two can be wrapped with vegetables and potatoes and frozen for an instant meal for use up to three months later.

When wrapping foods for freezing, beware of any nooks and crannies in the wrap. Use heavy-duty aluminum foil or a freezer wrap especially developed for the purpose.

Ground beef is a boon to the growing population of singles and doubles cooking for themselves. Savings on ground beef come when large packages are purchased; for your convenience these packages can be divided into serving-size portions and frozen for later use. Also, when you're looking for the best buy, consider what you're using the meat for. Leaner ground beef makes large cooked patties due to low juice losses. More economical ground beef with a maximum of 30 percent fat, adds juiciness and helps to bind mixture together.

Double-Duty Meat Loaves

2 lbs. ground beef
½ cup fine dry bread crumbs
1 cup tomato ketchup
1 egg
1½ teasp. seasoned salt
2 ozs. Cheddar cheese, cut into 4 rectangular slices
2 Tablesp. water
1 Tablesp. brown sugar, packed
1 teasp. prepared mustard
2 cups hot cooked mashed potatoes

1 (10-oz.) pkg. frozen broccoli spears, cooked

In a large bowl, combine ground beef, bread crumbs, ½ cup tomato ketchup, egg and salt. Mix thoroughly and shape into 8 patties. Place 1 piece of cheese on each of 4 patties. Top each with remaining patties, pinch together and shape into loaves. Place loaves on wire rack in shallow baking pan. Bake at 350 degrees 30 minutes. Meanwhile, combine remaining ketchup, water, brown sugar and mustard; glaze loaves. Bake 10 minutes longer.

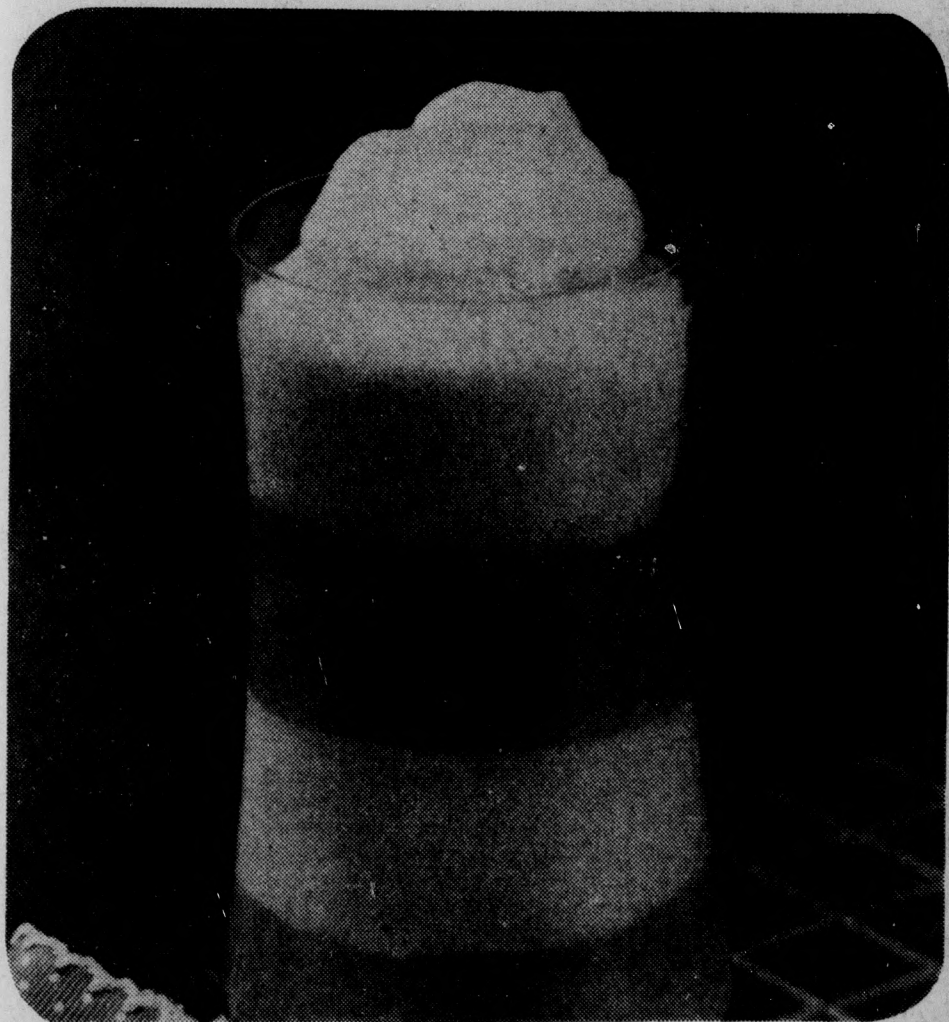

To serve now: Arrange two of the loaves on individual dinner plates. Place ½ of potatoes and broccoli on each plate and serve.

To serve later: Arrange remaining loaves, broccoli and potatoes in freezer-to-oven dish, cover with foil and freeze. When ready to use: place foil-covered dish directly from freezer in 400 degree oven 1 hour.

This is a dinner for two and mighty inexpensive. Two little meat loaves, spiced with ketchup, brown sugar and mustard, are baked side by side, then served with mashed potatoes, broccoli and your favorite wine. The dinner also can be frozen to eat later — but, not the wine.

Simple but elegant dessert features the new coffee-flavored instant pudding and pie filling. Creme de cacao highlights the tasty concoction.

Serve instant parfait

A new and exclusive flavor in instant pudding and pie filling is being introduced. Coffee flavored instant pudding and pie filling offers rich coffee flavor for all types of desserts: pies, pudding, tarts, bundt cakes and parfaits.

You don't have to own fancy parfait glasses in order to make this elegant dessert. Simple sherbet or iced tea glasses may be used.

Coffee Creme Parfaits

3 cups milk
1 cup heavy cream
1 package (3½ oz.) instant vanilla pudding
2 tablespoons white creme de cacao
1 package (3½ oz.) instant coffee pudding

Pour 1¼ cups milk and ¾ cup heavy cream into a small deep mixing bowl; add instant vanilla pudding. Beat with a rotary beater or electric mixer at slow speed for 2 minutes. Set aside.

Pour 1¾ cups milk and white creme de cacao into a small deep mixing bowl; add instant coffee pudding. Beat at slow speed for 2 minutes.

Alternate layers of vanilla and coffee puddings into 8 parfait glasses. Whip remaining ¼ cup heavy cream; garnish parfaits. Chill until ready to serve. Makes 8 servings.

Should you pay your carrier . . .

or not?

You don't have to. It's purely a matter for you to decide.

This newspaper is what is called in newspaper circles, a controlled circulation newspaper. There are dozens across the country—enough even to have conventions. The purpose of a controlled circulation newspaper is to provide local news, local service and local advertising to an important, independent, interested community.

But where does your carrier come in? He is paid a minimum allowance for delivering your local newspaper. He depends on you, really for his income, because when he collects, most of it is his. Controlled circulation newspapers work like that, on a voluntary pay plan.

We hope you appreciate and enjoy your newspaper enough to voluntarily pay your carrier. He is dependable. He is rendering you a service. He would like to earn the money. Pay him? Think about it.

THE HOT DOG VENDOR

There was a n. in who lived by the side of the road and sold hot dogs.

He sold very good hot dogs.

He put up signs along the highway and advertised in the newspaper telling how good they were.

He stood on the side of the road
and cried:

"Buy a hot dog, Mister?"

And people bought.

He increased his meat and bun orders.

He bought a bigger stove to take care of his trade.

He finally got his son home from college to help him out.

But then something happened.

His son said, "Father, haven't you been listening to the radio and watching TV?"

There's a big depression.

The foreign situation is terrible.

The domestic situation is worse."

Whereupon the father thought,

"Well, my son's been to college,
he listens to the radio and watches TV and he ought to know."

So the father cut down on his meat and bun orders, took down his signs and cancelled his newspaper ads and no longer bothered to stand out on the highway to sell his hot dogs.

And his hot dog sales fell almost overnight.

"You're right, son" the father said to the boy.

"We certainly are in the middle of a great depression."
